Introduction

The ACCA Qualification is a highly relevant, targeted combination of study and practical experience. The syllabus is a result of extensive research and consultation with government, students, colleges and employers from a range of public and private sector organisations.

ACCA strives to offer consistently high standards of training and support.

Future employers will be aware of your potential, because the ACCA qualification is highly regarded throughout the world. We have effective relationships with local and multinational organisations, accounting bodies, corporations and institutions including governments and even the United Nations.

The ACCA qualification is a passport to a new world of opportunity – once the candidate becomes a member, the learning process continues throughout your career. The range of educational opportunities includes a degree qualification, a specifically tailored MBA and a constantly updated range of courses in all areas of finance and management.

In addition, ACCA's unique partnership with Oxford Brookes University allows you to obtain a BSc (Hons) degree in Applied Accounting upon completion of part 2 of the professional Scheme exams. Passing the part 3 exams and gaining three years' relevant practical experience will lead to ACCA membership (from January 2007 onwards one will have to pass an online Module for Ethics to acquire ACCA membership). Lifelong learning continues beyond membership through our portfolio of continuing professional development opportunities, including a bespoke MBA and range of additional diplomas and certificates.
